To people interested in School Health Programs and School Health issues:

The Texas School Health Advisory Committee (TSHAC) was created by Texas Health and Safety Code, Section 1001.0711. TSHAC advises the Texas Department of State Health Services (DSHS) in its support for and delivery of coordinated school health programs and school health services. DSHS is currently accepting applications for membership on the TSHAC for the following position:

- School Nutrition Services Representative (working in a school setting)

The DSHS commissioner will appoint a member to the TSHAC to serve a term of four years ending July 31, 2029.
